Thoughts for Today's Readings

To the Point: The paired gospels of the Sunday give us the whole narrative arc of Holy Week. The triumph of Jesus' entrance into Jerusalem contrasts painfully with the crowds that turn on him in the passion narrative. One moment, though, brings us back to the truth; the centurion, a most unexpected source, affirms that this man truly was the Son of God. This is not the only time the passion story subverts expectations. The women epitomize bravery, staying near the grisly scene of the cross while the disciples who most staunchly averred their bravery are the first to run away. Religious leaders insist on Jesus' death while the occupying government tries to find ways to release him. Jesus' death does not happen quietly but affects the earth. We do not hear the end of the story here, the resurrection to which we so look forward, but we see very clearly that God is doing something new.

To Experience: Crucifixes are a common sight for us as Catholics, so common that we can fail to let them call to mind this story in its entirety. On the surface this looks like a gory, tragic story, but we know that it is, more truly, the story of the greatest love the world has ever known. The crucifix also points beyond itself; it is not the end of the story. We know that the resurrection is coming, and we trust in God's ability to make life ever new even as we share in the sorrow of the passion.

1. With which character of the passion story do you most identify? Why?
2. How can you imitate the humility of Jesus, who chose to empty himself out of love?
3. How have you seen God transform sorrow into joy? Where would you like God to do so?

Hear to Serve

PUTTING OUR BEST FOOT FORWARD

If the human Jesus was to walk into one of our parish communities, how would we greet him? Would it be with palm branches and cheering? Would we be concerned with His physical well-being and be ready with a dinner? Or would we be like this woman who poured out her love for Jesus in an extravagant way?

"A woman came up to Him with an Alabaster jar of costly perfumed oil and poured it on His head while He was reclining at table. When the disciples saw this, they were indignant, and said, 'Why this waste? It could have been sold for much and the money given to the poor' (Mt 26: 7-12).

While the disciples were in shock from what seemed to be a waste of costly oil, something that could have helped feed the poor, this woman showed them, and us, the proper way we should worship. We need to show our gratitude towards God. We should always, always give our best to God. We do not give God our second best. Now, if we continue to read in this Gospel, we see Jesus does acknowledge the value of giving to the poor, but He elevates the gifts given to Him on an even higher level.

This is why we always decorate our Churches with the finest things that we can afford. We use gold and silver; we give money to keep our buildings in good repair; we give money to support seminaries, convents, and the Diocese.

Speaking of that, I must give credit to the people of St. Gregory and Holy Trinity Parishes for the way you generously gave from not just your wallets but your hearts as you supported the one by One Campaign and the Bishop's Appeal. Any time something needs to be fixed or bought, the funds seem to miraculously appear. You understand, just like the woman with the costly oil, about giving God our gratitude, by giving God our very best.

Jesus does also give value to giving to the poor. He told us in Matthew 25:40, "Amen I say to you, when you did it to one of the least of my brothers you did it to Me." We are called to give to the poor as we give to God. If we give to the poor, we are truly giving to God. God created all people in His likeness and image. God gives the poor their dignity. Giving to God and giving to the poor is linked together.

As we come into Holy Week one of the ways we can give to the poor, to give alms, is to donate to the CRS Rice Bowl. It is not too late to add your change to the box. You can also write a check or put cash into an envelope, mark it CRS Rice Bowl, and drop it in the collection basket or bring it to one of the parish offices.

Catholic Relief Services is the world's largest charitable organization. 93% of what you give goes directly to the poor. (Our tax dollars should only give us that good of a return.) There are so many people in dire need of help. If you haven't given alms yet, it's time to put your faith into action. Let us give gratitude to God by giving to His poor.

*Viva Cristo Rey,
 Deacon Darryl*
