Thoughts for Today's Readings

To the Point: In this gospel, Jesus is preparing his disciples for his departure and for the next stage of their journey with him. After the intense three years of Jesus' public ministry, after his death and resurrection, they need to transition to a more sustainable mode of following Jesus. They are now in for the long haul of Christian life, responsible for testifying to what they have seen and handing down the tradition they have received. Jesus will no longer be present in the same way, but he will continue to be present to them through the Holy Spirit. This Spirit will sustain their work, as the same Spirit does for the church today.

To Experience: The Holy Spirit continues to dwell among us, guiding the church and bestowing the gifts of wisdom, understanding, counsel, fortitude, knowledge, piety, and fear of the Lord. In turn, we are called to continue the disciples' work of proclaiming the resurrection, of healing, and of distributing our goods justly. The Christian life is not easy, but the Spirit gives us strength to continue to make Christ more present.

1. Our theological tradition names seven gifts of the Holy Spirit: wisdom, understanding, counsel, fortitude, knowledge, piety, and fear of the Lord. Which of these do you most need right now?
2. How do you see the Holy Spirit living and active in your own life? When have the gifts of the Spirit been a source of consolation?
3. The Holy Spirit helps us transcend our human boundaries; in the first reading Jesus' followers are even able to transcend language barriers. How could the Holy Spirit be nudging you to work for greater unity within the human family?

Hear to Serve

WAIT FOR IT!

Fear. What has fear kept you from doing? How much time have you wasted worrying about things that may or may not happen? I know it's happened to me. Before I got married, before my ordination, I worried about whether or not I was smart enough or good enough. I was afraid of saying the wrong thing, being misunderstood, or failing to do something that needed to be done. I was anxious about letting my family or parishioners down, and even worse, letting Jesus down. Every instinct I had was to wait until I was good enough. What I forgot is that I am not good enough. I don't know what the grand plan is. I don't know what is in the hearts of others. I do not have the words of everlasting life.

There is the key to it all. I do not have these things. But Jesus does. This is the lesson the Apostles learned in our readings today. In the reading from the Gospel of John, the disciples were holed up together in a room in fear. They knew the mission that Jesus had given them. They were to go out and preach the Good News of the Gospel, but they were afraid that they would meet the same fate that Jesus had. They were afraid for their lives. What is the only thing that could overcome that fear? The peace of Jesus Christ. Jesus stood before them and said, "Peace be with you." He then told them to forgive sins and to receive the Holy Spirit, but to wait...wait for it.

The reading from the Acts of the Apostles begins with the waiting. The Apostles are together in the upper room when the Holy Spirit makes a dramatic entrance. They hear and feel the wind and they see the tongues of fire. They are completely transformed as they receive the gifts of the Holy Spirit. They receive everything they need to accomplish the mission. They go out, using the gifts given to them, and amaze the crowds. The people hear the words of everlasting life. The people hear the Gospel message.

Did the Apostles have an easy time of it? No, everything they were afraid of happened. There were times that the Apostles were misunderstood and did not know the answers to important questions, and there were times they were exhausted. The Apostles suffered persecutions and were martyred. How was it possible for them to keep going? They had the peace of Christ, the Gifts of the Holy Spirit, forgiveness of sins and the mission of the Church.

We have the same mission as the Apostles. We are to proclaim the Gospel of Jesus Christ to those in our families and those we meet. What are we waiting for? Are we waiting for a dramatic wind and tongues of fire? We have already been given the peace of Christ, and we give it to each other each time we receive Jesus in the Eucharist. We have received the Gifts of the Holy Spirit in Baptism and Confirmation. We receive forgiveness for our human failings in Reconciliation. What are we waiting for? We have been given all we need to overcome the fear.

Pentecost: The Birthday of the Church

You are cordially invited to a birthday party!

When: Pentecost
Where: Your Parish
Why: To Celebrate the Church's Birthday

Are you confused by this invitation? Did you know that the feast of Pentecost is often referred to as the birthday of the Church? It is called that because Pentecost is when the apostles went out among the people and began spreading Jesus' message, thus establishing the beginning of the Church.

Pentecost (Greek for 50th day) is celebrated by Christians 50 days after Easter, and marks the day that the Holy Spirit descended upon the apostles while they were cowering and hiding behind locked doors following Jesus' resurrection. After receiving the power and gifts of the Holy Spirit, the apostles immediately went out and preached Jesus' message to everyone—even those who spoke other languages. Actually, Pentecost was originally a Jewish feast that concluded the 50 days of Passover and celebrated the end of the barley harvest, plus the beginning of the wheat harvest. The Jewish people at Pentecost also celebrate the gift of the law to Moses at Mt. Sinai.

Symbols of Pentecost

The symbols of Pentecost are wind, fire and a dove.

The first symbol—wind—is taken from the noise the apostles heard as the Spirit descended upon them (Acts 2:2).

After the wind, flames appeared and rested upon the heads of each of the apostles (Acts 2:3).

A dove serves as a symbol of the Holy Spirit. There is no mention of a dove in Acts, but we associate a dove with the Holy Spirit because of the story about Jesus' baptism: "After Jesus was baptized, he came up from the water and behold, the heavens were opened [for him], and he saw the Spirit of God descending like a dove [and] coming upon him" (Matthew 3:16).

Celebrating Pentecost

Pentecost is probably one of the most important days on the Church calendar, but it often gets overlooked. Here are some ways that your family can help celebrate this very important day:

- Because Pentecost is the birthday of the Church, celebrate it just as you would any other birthday in your home—break out the cake and ice cream. Rather than singing "Happy Birthday," recite a prayer for Pentecost. Most prayer books contain special prayers for this special day.

- Wear something red. The color of the vestments worn by priests on Pentecost is red, to symbolize the love of the Holy Spirit, or the tongues of fire that appeared over the heads of the apostles on Pentecost. And don't just stop at wearing red. Use a red tablecloth for dinner, eat off red paper plates, eat red foods, etc. See how many ways you can incorporate the color red in your celebration.
- Read aloud the story of Pentecost in the second chapter of Acts.

For Teens: Reaching Out to Others

Before the Holy Spirit descended upon the apostles on Pentecost, they were afraid to go out and preach Jesus' message. Sometimes you too may feel insecure about talking with people you don't know or have much in common with.

After receiving the gifts of the Holy Spirit, the apostles found themselves able to converse with everyone despite their different languages. Now, you may not literally speak a different language than someone, but you may still discover that there is a world of difference between the two of you, such as interests, social groups, religions, ages, etc.

Make an effort to try to overcome those differences. Try to converse with people you have previously avoided or not understood.

For instance, if you are into sports, take some time to understand or get to know someone involved in the music or art department. Or take the time to ask someone you know of a different faith to explain his or her beliefs to you. Just remember to be respectful of your differences, and celebrate the things you have in common.

For Kids: Let's Go Fly a Kite

As we mentioned, wind is one of the symbols of Pentecost. So what better way to experience the wind than to fly a kite? You can buy one or make your own with instructions from a book or off the Internet.

Or, if you would rather tackle a smaller project, make a pinwheel and watch what the wind does. Again, you can find instructions for how to make pinwheels on the Internet.

If you make your own kite or pinwheel, decorate it with the other symbols of Pentecost, such as red flames or a dove. You can draw them or make them with construction paper and glue them on.
